Slidell, Covington and Madisonville churches feel especially blessed in the recent visit of Dr. James B. Woods, of our North Kiangu Mission. The presence of Dr. Woods in our homes was a rare privilege and those in the churches who enjoyed his delightful lectures not only are aroused to new interest in the world-wide work of the Master, but also feel a pride and satisfaction that our missions are able to show to the heathen nations such noble examples of Christian manhood. Rev. J. M. Williams is the pastor.

Amite: Sunday, March 21, was a glad day at this place. For the first time since the frightful storm of April 24, 1908, which demolished every church in the town, the people gathered in a house of worship. The occasion was the dedication of the Presbyterian church, just completed. A fine choir, composed of members of the various Protestant congregations of the town, made the musical part of the service rich and attractive. The dedication sermon was preached by Rev. Dr. Summey, of New Orleans, and the dedicatory prayer was offered by Rev. H. W. Wallace, recently the pastor of the church and now the pastor of the church at Crystal Springs, Miss. In connection with the service of dedication, there were four additions to the church, received by Dr. Summey. Two of those were received on profession of faith. The credit for the restoration of the church is largely due to Rev. H. W. Wallace, who signalized his devotion by working for the church while he had upon him the great burden of restoring his own home which the storm destroyed. Through his untiring energy the funds were gathered, some scattered materials were brought together and utilized, help was sought here and there, and the people encouraged and cheered when all were suffering in the midst of their own losses. The church was dedicated free of debt and stands a splendid monument to the liberality of the people and to the activity of Mr. Wallace.

Harwood: This is an outpost of our church at Walker, and the pastor, Rev. W. A. Frasier, gives the members at this end of his field one Sunday a month. From the first to the twenty-third of March he held evangelistic services here, and beginning the eighth, had the assistance of Rev. Lynn F. Ross, pastor at Lamar. The services were well attended, and a beautiful spirit of Christian love was shown by the other churches. During the services there were twelve additions to the church on profession of faith, five of whom had previously professed conversion, and there were four who were converted who will unite with the other churches represented here. The number of persons converted was eleven. This splendid body of young people represent a great power in the little town and it is good to see them giving their hearts to God in the days of youth.

St. Charles: Rev. F. A. Wright, the well known evangelist, has just closed a two weeks' meeting at the First Presbyterian church. Preparatory to the meeting cottage prayer meetings were held for two weeks preceding and the people were expecting a blessing. The pure gospel was preached with great earnestness and authority. Mr. Wright sang one or two solos during each service. The congregations were increasingly large until the last Sunday evening we were forced to go to the Methodist church, the largest Protestant church in the city. Special services were held at Lindenwood and St. Charles Military Colleges, also for the young people of the church immediately after school. All the Protestant churches gave us their hearty co-operation and shared in the good results of the meeting. All received new members. There were eighty-four professions of faith in Christ, among whom were sixteen young ladies from Lindenwood College. Twenty-one members were received into the church on Sunday, March 21, and quite a number of others will soon do so. We praise God for his blessing.

Wilmington: Rev. A. D. McClure, pastor. This church has contributed four dollars per member for Foreign Missions during the ecclesiastical year just closing, twice as much as in the year before. This is due chiefly to our elders who attended the Birmingham convention. Mr. W. H. Sprunt and Mr. D. Joseph Akerman. Eleven new members were received at the spring communion. The Sabbath school is growing and the young people's societies are active and aggressive.

Society Monday night, May 24. The visit and preaching of Rev. Dr. H. A. White, of Columbia Seminary, who filled the pulpit on Sabbath, March 21, was genuinely enjoyed by his many friends and admirers. His morning discourse had for its topic Paul before Agrippa, and was a fine presentation of the subject. At night he spoke from the text, Isaiah 5:30: "Woe unto them that call evil good, and good evil." Rev. Dr. C. H. Richards left the first of the week for a brief visit to Blenheim, in Marlborough county, S. C., the home of his father, who will celebrate at that time his eighty-first anniversary with a family reunion. The old gentleman is still in the active ministry.
